

QUALITY AND ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Technica is a multi-disciplined engineering design, installation and project management company working within the energy and petro-chemical sectors.

Technica's operations relate to the design and installation of mechanical, electrical and instrumentation systems for industrial purposes, using commercially available components and products.

Technica are committed to the quality management principles set out in ISO9001:2015 and the aims of environmental management set out in 14001:2015 throughout our business operations. All our operations will be guided by the objective of delivering excellence to the client and minimising the environmental impacts.

Technica will;

- Provide effective leadership via the Leadership Team.
- Conduct leadership review, update and communication of business risks and mitigations via the Business Context and Risk document and quarterly reviews.
- Address the needs and expectations of interested parties both internal and external.
- Continually improve the quality and environmental management system.
- Establish key processes including risk controls aimed at assuring conformity
- Meet and exceed customer requirements.
- Set and review quality and environmental objectives and associated actions plans.
- Measure process and environmental performance to facilitate and inform continual improvement programmes.
- Comply with all relevant legislation, regulations and approved codes of practice.
- Regularly communicate Technica policies, objectives and performance.
- Provide the infrastructure, resources, training and competence development creating an effective motivated workforce.
- Seek feedback from our clients and act upon it.
- Ensure that Technica suppliers and contractors are involved and integral to the effectiveness of our quality and environmental system.
- The Quality and Environment systems are referenced in the Quality and Environment System Manual.

The board of Technica are ultimately responsible for this combined quality and environmental policy.

The leadership team of Technica are responsible for the implementation of this combined policy.
